

Tamara L. Lewis

was born and raised in Burlington, New Jersey where she lived with her parents and three siblings. Tamara started writing in the sixth grade and has been smitten with the craft ever since. Besides fiction novels, she writes short fiction, poetry, and plays. She has two children and currently resides in Lancaster, Texas.